Hear Ye, Hear Ye: Forum Announcement

The PRS online forum will go live on Feb 10th! We've created an online space for PRS members to communicate with each other about music, playing opportunities, concerts, questions, answers, music and instruments for sale, etc. This will be an online space that we hope will build community and give us all a way to learn from and help each other. The PRS board members will periodically post news and announcements, but mostly the content will be created by you, the members. Looking for people to play with near your neighborhood? Have a question about an ornament or a trill fingering? Looking for early music concerts coming up? Have an instrument you'd like to sell? The PRS forum is the place to ask questions, talk about things you're doing in early music, and help your fellow members.

Access to the forum is a benefit of PRS membership, so you must be a member to join. To get access to the board, just send a request to Dave Sandage at membership@portlandrecordersociety.org. The forum will go live on Feb 10th and on that day (or within a day or 2 if you request access after Feb 10) you'll get an email with an invitation to join the forum, containing a link to create your account. Once you have an account, you can log into the forum here:

<https://portlandrecorder.freeforums.net>

After you log on, you'll see several categories with sub-topics. Feel free to browse the content that's there, and please post an introduction of yourself in the "Member Introductions" section. There isn't a lot of content on the forum yet, and the PRS board is working on adding content, but the real power of this forum will be when all of us contribute, so feel free to post!

If you have questions or suggestions about the forum, feel free to contact Dave at the above email address. See you online soon!

PRS Seeks Outreach Coordinator

Portland Recorder Society is expanding its activities to serve its members better and create a larger presence in the community. This effort includes support of concerts that showpiece recorders, scholarships to the Columbia Gorge Early Music Workshop for local players, and expanded chapter activities throughout the summer. Outreach is a new position that the recorder society is exploring. Our efforts will focus on non-players, especially to youngsters and others who might become recorder players or who would benefit from learning about the versatility of the recorder and its music. Many PRS members have expressed interest in demonstrating, educating and performing for interested groups. An Outreach Coordinator would support the PRS Board by locating interested parties. The Coordinator would be a volunteer position and would report to the Board.

Job Description

1. Identify places/needs in the Portland metro area* that would benefit from a program presented by members of the Portland Recorder Society, including:

- Schools (grade – middle schools)
- Churches
- Retirement Centers
- Underserved community programs such as Bravo Youth Orchestra
- Other (to be determined)

*Portland metro area to include Multnomah, Clackamas & Washington counties

2. Generate a “living” spreadsheet with places, names and contact information for use by the Outreach coordinator and Portland Recorder Society

3. Work with the music director to schedule outreach events

4. Report monthly with updates to the Portland Recorder Society Board

Upcoming Concerts

Portland Baroque Orchestra

For more information go to <https://pbo.org/2024-25-season>

- An artist of “consummate taste and expressivity” (Cleveland Plain Dealer), guest director and oboist Debra Nagy leads a program of captivating beauty featuring Bach, Telemann, and Vivaldi. This program celebrates the fusion of the oboe d’amore and viola d’amore.

—February 15th, 7:00 pm, Sanctuary Hall at First Congregational Church
 —February 16th, 3:00 pm, Kaul Auditorium, Reed College
- Featuring horn, oboe, violin, and harpsichord, this musical ride through the European countryside echoes with the thundering hooves and spirited chase of the hunt. Stölzel’s Sonata sets the scene with its evocative simplicity, capturing the essence of the outdoors. The complexity of the music then intensifies with works by Telemann and Fasch, mirroring the excitement and intensity of the hunt, while paying homage to the horn’s crucial role in signaling and guiding the pursuit.

—March 8th, 2025 at 3:00 pm, Sanctuary Hall at First Congregational Church
- A celebration of rebirth and renewal, from the much-loved “Spring” from Vivaldi’s The Four Seasons, to the world premiere of Rhian Samuel’s Gwanwyn (the Welsh word for spring), commissioned by PBO in response to Vivaldi’s interpretation of the season. We also explore Bach’s Harpsichord Concerto in G Minor, a ‘rebirth’ of one of his earlier works where the organic interplay of soloist and orchestra captures the nature of springtime.

 —March 16th, 3:00 pm, Kaul Auditorium, Reed College
